

Dr. John Gallegos' Bio

Dr. Gallegos has served as an adjunct professor at Jessup since the fall of 2011 and is now the Director of Casa Latina, the Center for Hispanic/Latino Ministry at Jessup University. His passion is to support and resource Hispanic/Latino churches and leaders, and open up educational opportunities and spaces for current and future church leaders. He also serves as pastor of Iglesia Nueva Vida, a bilingual Assemblies of God church in Woodland, CA. His research interests include global Pentecostalism, Pentecostal theology, and U.S. Latina/o theology. Dr. Gallegos also teaches courses in both New Testament and theology.